TEUTONS HOPE PEACE PACT TO BE REVISED

COUNT ON THE LEAGUE NATIONS TO TAKE ACTION

GERMANY PINS FAITH TO ARTICLE 19 OF THE LEAGUE COVENANT

VERY IMPORTANT OF PROVIDING SECURITY AGAINST WAR

Geneva, Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—Germany revealed officially for the first time today that it was counting on the League of Nations eventually to revise the Versailles peace treaty in its favor.

Addressing the security commission of the disarmament conference, Count Von Bernstorff, Germany's chief delegate, declared that Germany attached the greatest importance as a means of providing security against war, to article 19 of the league covenant.

It is this article that gives the league authority to recommend revision of treaties that become out of date and inapplicable, and Bernstorff's reference was to the Versailles treaty between the allies and Germany. Germans always have claimed that some territorial and other clauses of the treaty make real permanent peace impossible.

Count Von Bernstorff asserted that Germany was ready to collaborate in all security efforts. But the commission's real object, he said, must be to suppress war as a means of settling international disputes.

Pacific settlement of all disputes, he argued, was possible under the League of Nations covenant and the Hague international court treaty.

Count Von Bernstorff said Germany attached importance to Article 19 of the League of Nations covenant, which provided for possible revision of out-of-date or inapplicable treaties.

Senor Valdes Mandeville, Chile, promised his country's support of all security efforts.

Disarmament conferees generally were astounded at news, published today, of the interview given in Warsaw by Marshal Pilsudski, Polish dictator, in which he stated that he spent all of one night last week considering whether to mobilize the army because Lithuania also was reported to be mobilizing.

The gravity of his statement was realized fully. German and Russian delegates, who are anti-Polish, said Pilsudski's statement contained a threat to start trouble if the league did not settle the Vilna questions—territory seized by Poland from Lithuania several years ago—in Poland's favor.

DITCH CAVES IN; SUFFOCATES TWO

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—Death caused by asphyxiation was the fate of Earl Coe, 31, and E. M. Tucker, 32, both of Lees Summit, near here, late yesterday when the side of a ditch they were digging caved in, burying them under several feet of earth.

Several other workmen tried to extricate the two, but because of the narrowness of the ditch and the large amount of earth that covered the two men it was fifteen minutes before the victims were uncovered. Both were dead when found.

DIAMOND JUBILEE, MINNEAPOLIS CITY'S 75TH BIRTHDAY

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—The year-long diamond jubilee in celebration of Minneapolis' seventy-fifth birthday will begin with a grand ball the night of January 30, it was announced today.

Dearborn Independent Publication May be Discontinued

Boston, Mass., Dec. 1.—(U.P.)—The Boston News Bureau, a financial service, said today that Henry Ford will discontinue publication of his Dearborn Independent.

The motor magnate, it was said, has issued orders to stop receiving subscriptions.

It was the Dearborn Independent that attacked the agricultural marketing projects of Aaron Sapiro, Chicago attorney, and brought on his suit against Ford for $1,000,000 damages. He charged the articles were anti-semitic.

BANDITS ATTACK BRITISH STEAMER, KILL 3 OFFICERS

Shanghai, Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—Bandits attacked the British steamer Slangton, killed three officers, wounded several passengers, and held Captain W. G. Lalor for $50,000 American dollars ransom, wireless dispatches reported today upon the vessel's arrival at Ichang.

The British senior naval officer at Ichang was reported to be negotiating with Chinese generals for an attack on the bandits and the release of the ship's captain.

The attack occurred Wednesday night when the Slangton was anchored off Hanchuan, near Yehang. Bandits looted the baggage and obtained $20,000 in cash.

The officers killed were reported to be the first engineer, the quartermaster, and the chief steward.

WILLIS BEACH BEGINS FIGHT FOR ACQUITTAL

CHARGED JOINTLY WITH MRS. MARGARET LILLIENDAHL OF SLAYING HUSBAND

QUARREL OF BEACH AND DOCTOR HINGED OVER MATTER OF CHICKENS

By SAM LOVE

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Courtroom, Mays Landing, N. J., Dec. 2.—Willis Beach, accused jointly with Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl of the murder of Dr. Wm. Lilliendahl, began his fight for acquittal today.

Edison Hedges, Beach's attorney, began his opening statement to the jury when court opened. He pictured Beach as "just an ordinary south Jersey chicken farm with nothing remarkable about him."

No seats were vacant in the courtroom but the crowd was the smallest since the trial began.

Hedges introduced to the jury in a friendly sort of "let's all get acquainted now" manner, first Beach, then Beach's son, Ray; Beach's wife and Ray Beach's wife.

He told the jury the Beaches were all friends and that Willis Beach and his family and Beach's brother's family were all friends of the Lilliendahls, although Willis Beach and the doctor didn't agree, it was true, on how a sick chicken should be cared for.

The state had attributed the trouble between Beach and Dr. Lilliendahl to Lilliendahl's jealousy over Beach's supposed attentions to Mrs. Lilliendahl.

But, Hedges said, he would show the state was all wrong—it was all a matter of chickens. Beach's chickens, and they were good chickens, respected in the community and highly prized, got the chicken pox.

Dr. Lilliendahl, Hedges said, gave them some medicine.

"It killed them like fleas on a dead dog," Hedges said.

And it was there that the quarrel—there never was anything more than a quarrel—began, he said.

SNOW, RAIN AND COLDER WEATHER FACE NEW YORK

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—Snow and rain with colder weather faced western New York today as it struggled to recover from flood conditions which reached their peak with the loss of one life and thousands of dollars damage.

Many families were temporarily homeless. Transportation facilities were hampered and industry crippled.

In the Chautauque county district, a vast acreage of grape and farmlands was under several feet of water. The city itself was heavily inundated.

Highways for hundreds of miles between Jamestown and Warren, Pa. were impassable.

Hornell suffered the greatest discomfort. The entire city was under five feet of water.

Many factories were forced to suspend operations because employees were unable to get to their work.

Chicago Paper Claims Evidence of Collusion Between Police and Crime Has Been Uncovered

CARL A. BICKEL GUEST OF HONOR AT SAN FRANCISCO

LUNCHEON TENDERED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND COMMERCIAL CLUB

ARRIVES IN CITY AFTER WORLD TOUR, SPEAKS OF BUSINESS CONDITIONS

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—Carl A. Bickel, president of the United Press, was the guest of honor today at a luncheon of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club.

Bickel, who with Mrs. Bickel, arrived in San Francisco yesterday after a world tour, addressed the California businessmen on "Commercial conditions as they exist in the United States and the principal foreign countries."

The United States as a possible banker nation for the far east was pictured by Bickel. He declared that competition from Japan may be expected by the United States in Manchuria, but forecast that this nation would play an important part in financing eastern development.

Many Chinese fear, he said, that the northern military ruler, Chang Tso-Lin, would make himself emperor.

Bickel said he had gathered the impression in his tour that democracies were getting to be such a luxury that only the more prosperous nations could afford them.

"Ten years after the war that was fought to make the world safe for democracy, the major portion of the civilized world is ruled by dictators," Bickel said.

"China is contributing the latest dictator, Chang Tso-Lin, ruler of the northern half of the country."

"Only Stalin in Russia rules over a large area, but there are Mussolini, Pilsudski, Rivera and a lot of smaller two-fisted dictators to whom the world is giving jobs in gross lots."

"The poorer countries can't afford the luxury of democracy. If Russia blew away what we did in our airplane scandal it would wreck the government."

"Only rich nations like ours and England can afford the mistakes that are made by democracies."

Bickel said he found North and South China in a stalemate, with the war lord, Chang, giving his half of the land a secure, ruthless government.

During the two weeks Bickel was in Peking more than a score of students, including a girl, and others suspected of pro-Russian or radical sympathies were executed.

Bickel passed off the spectre of a Pan-Asiatic League of Nations as a "pink-tinted dream of Chinese, Japanese and Russian idealists."

He found instead a tendency toward a partnership between Russia and Japan with Japan assuming an economic "Monroe Doctrine" role over Manchuria and Outer Mongolia, much like that of the United States over Central America.

In this combination Russia would furnish the raw material and Japan the manufacturing genius, he said.

SCHOOLMATE OF GEORGE REMUS ON THE STAND

JOHN S. BERGER ONE OF LEADING "INSANITY WITNESSES" OF DEFENSE

LATTER CLAIMS REMUS' MIND DERANGED WHEN HE SHOT HIS WIFE

By PAUL W. WHITE

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Courtroom, Cincinnati, O., Dec. 2.—John S. Berger, Los Angeles exposition promoter, who went to school with George Remus, 40 years ago, today resumed the witness stand at the trial of his friend on the charge of murdering his wife.

Berger was one of the leading "insanity witnesses" of the defense which claims that Remus' mind was impaired when he shot Mrs. Remus in Eden Park on the morning of Oct. 6.

Charles H. Elston, co-counsel for the defense, arose for a brief resumption of direct examination.

"You testified yesterday of a number of incidents which led to your opinion as to Mr. Remus' sanity or insanity. Have you told all of such incidents?"

"I think so."

"What was your opinion?"

"He was insane."

The incidents referred to were in relation to the "crazy" conduct of Remus when Berger came telling tales of alleged intimacies between Mrs. Remus and Franklin L. Dodge Jr., former department of justice operative.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS INVESTIGATING

POLICE CAPTAINS, PRECINCT COMMITTEEMEN CONSTANTLY TRAILED

CHICAGO HERALD AND EXAMINER SAID INDICTMENTS ARE TO FOLLOW

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—The Chicago Herald and Examiner today said that "amazing evidence of collusion between Chicago police officials, politicians and operators of booze and gambling resorts has been uncovered by federal officials."

Secret investigation by federal intelligence operatives has been conducted for the past month, the newspaper said.

"Everyone of the city's forty-two police captains has been continuously shadowed by federal operatives during the last few weeks," it said.

"Government agents have been constantly trailing ward and precinct committeemen and their lesser lieutenants, many of whom, it is said, have constituted themselves collection agents to gang chieftains and the lesser ilk who peddle and retail booze, beer, and gambling opportunities."

The story said several score federal indictments may be expected as a result of the investigation.

"Politicians and police officials may be named along with such gangland celebrities as Al Capone, 'Barney' Bertsche, Joe Salts, Frank McErlane, John 'Dingbat' Obera, 'Mike De Pike' Heitler, John Genaro, Joe Aiello, and George Moran," the paper asserted.

It was understood, according to the Herald and Examiner, that if indictments were returned they would charge conspiracy to violate the prohibition act.

"Government men have learned that saloons and gambling resorts are allowed to operate only by paying tribute to ward committeemen, who are said to pass along a share of the 'protection money' to precinct committeemen, and, in certain districts, to high ranking police officers," said the article.

George E. Q. Johnson, U. S. district attorney, intimated the Herald Examiner story was much exaggerated.

"Of course we are constantly investigating police angles of federal liquor cases," he said, "but we have not enough agents to trail all policemen and politicians even if we wanted to. There are no such cases before the grand jury now."

It was generally known, however, that an investigation of the ramifications of gang influence and political power in connection with liquor law violations has been in progress for some time.

E. C. Yellowley, prohibition administrator, declined to comment on the Herald and Examiner article.

Meanwhile gangsters celebrated Chief of Police Michael Hughes' second warning that bombings must cease by setting off a blast in a restaurant owned by Theopolis Dunlavy early today. The second floor of the place was said to have been headquarters for a minor gambling syndicate.

Hughes told 50 police captains yesterday that if they could not prevent bombings they could quit the department.

Unrest in labor circles was blamed for another death when Fred A. Dullard, 35, member of the Electrical Workers' Union, was shot to death. Dullard's activity in behalf of his uncle's candidacy for office in the union was said by police to have led to the shooting.

LIVED TOGETHER 40 YEARS, THEN COULD NOT AGREE

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lehman had to live together 40 years to find out that they couldn't agree, but now, with 10 years of separation added to their marital experience, neither is very keen about a golden wedding celebration.

They were granted a divorce yesterday after Judge Joseph S. Bath had urged them to become reconciled and celebrate their 50th anniversary together.

They quarreled a decade ago when Lehman ordered Mrs. Lehman's brother out of their house. Now they have divided their property—enough to admit them to different homes for the aged.

Lehman is 75, and Mrs. Lehman 65.

CHARGES MADE OF GIGANTIC LOBBY OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

TO DEFEAT BOULDER DAM BILL AND OPEN MUSCLE SHOALS

MAY PRECIPITATE DEMAND FOR ANOTHER SENATORIAL INVESTIGATION

By KENNETH CRAWFORD

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Washington, Dec. 2.—Charges that a gigantic lobby has been organized here by public utilities interests to defeat the Boulder Dam bill and open Muscle Shoals to private exploitation may precipitate a demand for another senatorial investigation at the coming session of congress.

Judson King, director of the National Popular Government League, issued a statement today naming the joint committee of National Utility Associations as the hub of a power lobby organization.

"The principal objectives of this super-lobby," King said, "are to kill the Boulder Dam bill, deliver Muscle Shoals to the power combine, sidetrack the resolution to investigate the power trust as proposed by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, and turn over an invaluable power site belonging to the Flathead Indians of Montana to the Montana Power Co. without just compensation to its owners."

Any action resulting from his charges will probably originate with Senator Walsh, who plans to reintroduce his resolution to investigate public utility corporations, which died in committee in the last congress.

Walsh told the United Press he was considering an addition to his original resolution providing for investigation of the alleged lobby as well as the power trust itself.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, leader of the senate insurgents, said he was convinced the lobby should be investigated and hoped Walsh would institute the movement in connection with his power trust investigation proposal.

"I have been aware of the existence of a great power lobby for some time," said Senator Johnson, republican, California, co-author of the Swing-Johnson bill.

"It will be an obstacle to Boulder Dam legislation but we are prepared to fight it. Driving it into the open will diminish its effectiveness somewhat."

King's statement was devoted largely to discussion of the men said to be connected with the joint committee. He named George B. Carleton, president of the Consolidated Gas Company of New York; Philip H. Gadsden of the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia; Stephen B. Davis, former solicitor of the department of commerce; Josiah T. Newcomb, Washington attorney; and several others prominent in the public utilities field.

Private interests are intent upon preventing government operation of public utilities, particularly at Boulder Dam and Muscle Shoals, the statement charged, because it will "show up their big profits and watered stock schemes."

TEMPERATURES IN MANY PLACES SEASON'S LOWEST

WEATHER FORECASTERS, TWIN CITIES, REPORT NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

TELEPHONE LINES SNAP FROM COLD IN SEVERAL CITIES

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—The northwest today continued in the grip of mid-winter weather with many localities reporting the lowest temperatures of the season.

In the Twin Cities the mercury dropped to 12 degrees below zero this morning, with no relief in sight, weather forecasters said.

W. C. Kinderman, employee of the Booth Fuel Co., was found dead on a residential street of St. Paul from heart disease aggravated by the frigid temperature. Many small fires, caused by over-heated stoves, were reported. Officials of telephone companies reported difficulties in service operations due to snapping of telephone wires.

The St. Paul weather bureau said today was the coldest Dec. 2 in the past 30 years here.

At Brainerd, Minn., it was 13 below with a minimum of 22 below during the night. Correspondingly low figures were reported throughout that section of the state.

Hibbing, Minn., reported a new low record for the season. Unofficial readings showed 25 degrees below zero at 8 A. M.

Cities in southern Minnesota reported warmer weather than prevailed in the northern section of the state with temperatures of from zero to 10 below generally.

At Rochester, it was 5 below. Fairbault and Red Wing reported temperatures this morning were eight degrees below zero. In Fairmont it was two degrees above.

Another report from the northern section of the state said the temperature in Moorhead was 12 below.

Roads in many sections of the state were being cleared of snow today after the heavy fall Thursday. The work is being done by crews of the state highway department.

Brainerd reported disruption of telephone service on several toll lines because of wires being snapped by the excessive cold weather.

ASSESSMENT DECLARED NOT EXCESSIVE ONE

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—The state supreme court today upheld a lower court decision which declared that assessment of $20,000 against the St. Paul Union Depot Co. for the widening of the depot's street front was not excessive.

The company appealed to the higher court after Judge Charles Bechohofer handed down the decision in Ramsey county court.

DANIEL C. SHAY DIES FROM SELF INFLICTED WOUND

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—Daniel C. Shay, 50, who was found wounded seriously in a hotel here early yesterday died later in the day. He had a bullet wound in his head. Shay, who was a former manager of the Kansas City Blues and one time scout for several major league teams, had been in ill health for some time and was suffering from paralysis.

The coroner's inquest held that suicide was the cause of death.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 2.—(U.P.)—After being driven 100 miles in zero weather from her home at Sleepy Eye, Minn., to the Minneapolis General hospital, Mrs. Sadie Johnson, 33, died late Thursday.

Paris, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The conference of allied ambassadors today decided that Austria should be freed of all allied control January 31, 1928. The control was imposed by the St. Germain peace treaty.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS INVESTIGATING

POLICE CAPTAINS, PRECINCT COMMITTEEMEN CONSTANTLY TRAILED

CHICAGO HERALD AND EXAMINER SAID INDICTMENTS ARE TO FOLLOW

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The Chicago Herald and Examiner today said that "amazing evidence of collusion between Chicago police officials, politicians and operators of booze and gambling resorts has been uncovered by federal officials."

Secret investigation by federal intelligence operatives has been conducted for the past month, the newspaper said.

"Everyone of the city's forty-two police captains has been continuously shadowed by federal operatives during the last few weeks," it said.

"Government agents have been constantly trailing ward and precinct committeemen and their lesser lieutenants, many of whom, it is said, have constituted themselves collection agents to gang chieftains and the lesser ilk who peddle and retail booze, beer, and gambling opportunities."

The story said several score federal indictments may be expected as a result of the investigation.

"Politicians and police officials may be named along with such gangland celebrities as Al Capone, 'Barney' Bertsche, Joe Saltis, Frank McErlane, John 'Dingbat' Oberta, 'Mike De Pike' Heitler, John Genaro, Joe Aiello, and George Moran," the paper asserted.

It was understood, according to the Herald and Examiner, that if indictments were returned they would charge conspiracy to violate the prohibition act.

"Government men have learned that saloons and gambling resorts are allowed to operate only by paying tribute to ward committeemen, who are said to pass along a share of the 'protection money' to precinct committeemen, and, in certain districts, to high ranking police officers," said the article.

George E. Q. Johnson, U. S. district attorney, intimated the Herald Examiner story was much exaggerated.

"Of course we are constantly investigating police angles of federal liquor cases," he said, "but we have not enough agents to trail all policemen and politicians even if we wanted to. There are no such cases before the grand jury now."

It was generally known, however, that an investigation of the ramifications of gang influence and political power in connection with liquor law violations has been in progress for some time.

E. C. Yellowley, prohibition administrator, declined to comment on the Herald and Examiner article.

Meanwhile gangsters celebrated Chief of Police Michael Hughes' second warning that bombings must cease by setting off a blast in a restaurant owned by Theopolis Dunlavy early today. The second floor of the place was said to have been headquarters for a minor gambling syndicate.

Hughes told 50 police captains yesterday that if they could not prevent bombings they could quit the department.

Unrest in labor circles was blamed for another death when Fred A. Dullard, 35, member of the Electrical Workers' Union, was shot to death. Dullard's activity in behalf of his uncle's candidacy for office in the union was said by police to have led to the shooting.

LIVED TOGETHER 40 YEARS, THEN COULD NOT AGREE

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lehman had to live together 40 years to find out that they couldn't agree, but now, with 10 years of separation added to their marital experience, neither is very keen about a golden wedding celebration.

They were granted a divorce yesterday after Judge Joseph Sabath had urged them to become reconciled and celebrate their 50th anniversary together.

They quarreled a decade ago when Lehman ordered Mrs. Lehman's brother out of their house. Now they have divided their property enough to admit them to different homes for the aged.

Lehman is 75, and Mrs. Lehman 65.

CHARGES MADE OF GIGANTIC LOBBY OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

TO DEFEAT BOULDER DAM BILL AND OPEN MUSCLE SHOALS

MAY PRECIPITATE DEMAND FOR ANOTHER SENATORIAL INVESTIGATION

By KENNETH CRAWFORD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Dec. 2.—Charges that a gigantic lobby has been organized here by public utilities interests to defeat the Boulder Dam bill and open Muscle Shoals to private exploitation may precipitate a demand for another senatorial investigation at the coming session of congress.

Judson King, director of the National Popular Government League, issued a statement today naming the joint committee of National Utility Associations as the hub of a power lobby organization.

"The principal objectives of this super-lobby," King said, "are to kill the Boulder Dam bill, deliver Muscle Shoals to the power combine, sidetrack the resolution to investigate the power trust as proposed by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, and turn over an invaluable power site belonging to the Flathead Indians of Montana to the Montana Power Co. without just compensation to its owners."

Any action resulting from his charges will probably originate with Senator Walsh, who plans to reintroduce his resolution to investigate public utility corporations, which died in committee in the last congress.

Walsh told the United Press he was considering an addition to his original resolution providing for investigation of the alleged lobby as well as the power trust itself.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, leader of the senate insurgents, said he was convinced the lobby should be investigated and hoped Walsh would institute the movement in connection with his power trust investigation proposal.

"I have been aware of the existence of a great power lobby for some time," said Senator Johnson, republican, California, co-author of the Swing-Johnson bill.

"It will be an obstacle to Boulder Dam legislation but we are prepared to fight it. Driving it into the open will diminish its effectiveness somewhat."

King's statement was devoted largely to discussion of the men said to be connected with the joint committee. He named George B. Carleton, president of the Consolidated Gas Company of New York; Philip H. Gadsden of the United Gas and Improvement Company of Philadelphia; Stephen B. Davis, former solicitor of the department of commerce; Josiah T. Newcomb, Washington attorney; and several others prominent in the public utilities field.

Private interests are intent upon preventing government operation of public utilities, particularly at Boulder Dam and Muscle Shoals, the statement charged, because it will "show up their big profits and watered stock schemes."

TEMPERATURES IN MANY PLACES SEASON'S LOWEST

WEATHER FORECASTERS, TWIN CITIES, REPORT NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

TELEPHONE LINES SNAP FROM COLD IN SEVERAL CITIES

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 2.—(UP)—The northwest today continued in the grip of mid-winter weather with many localities reporting the lowest temperatures of the season.

In the Twin Cities the mercury dropped to 12 degrees below zero this morning, with no relief in sight, weather forecasters said.

W. C. Kinderman, employe of the Booth Fuel Co., was found dead on a residential street of St. Paul from heart disease aggravated by the frigid temperature. Many small fires, caused by over-heated stoves, were reported. Officials of telephone companies reported difficulties in service operations due to snapping of telephone wires.

The St. Paul weather bureau said today was the coldest Dec. 2 in the past 30 years here.

At Brainerd, Minn., it was 13 below with a minimum of 22 below during the night. Correspondingly low figures were reported throughout that section of the state.

Hibbing, Minn., reported a new low record for the season. Unofficial readings showed 25 degrees below zero at 8 A. M.

Cities in southern Minnesota reported warmer weather than prevailed in the northern section of the state with temperatures of from zero to 10 below generally.

At Rochester, it was 5 below.

Fairbault and Red Wing reported temperatures this morning were eight degrees below zero. In Fairmont it was two degrees above. Another report from the northern section of the state said the temperature in Moorhead was 12 below.

Roads in many sections of the state were being cleared of snow today after the heavy fall Thursday. The work is being done by crews of the state highway department.

Brainerd reported disruption of telephone service on several toll lines because of wires being snapped by the excessive cold weather.

ASSESSMENT DECLARED NOT EXCESSIVE ONE

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 2.—(UP)—The state supreme court today upheld a lower court decision which declared that assessment of $20,000 against the St. Paul Union Depot Co. for the widening of the depot's street front was not excessive.

The company appealed to the higher court after Judge Charles Boehm had handed down the decision in Ramsey county court.

DANIEL C. SHAY DIES FROM SELF INFLICTED WOUND

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Daniel C. Shay, 50, who was found wounded seriously in a hotel here early yesterday died later in the day. He had a bullet wound in his head.

Shay, who was a former manager of the Kansas City Blues and one time scout for several major league teams, had been in ill health for some time and was suffering from paralysis.

The coroner's inquest held that suicide was the cause of death.

DROVE 100 MILES TO HOSPITAL WITH WIFE, WHO DIES

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 2.—(UP)—After being driven 100 miles in zero weather from her home at Sleepy Eye, Minn., to the Minneapolis General Hospital, Mrs. Sadie Johnson, 33, died late Thursday.

Thorwald Johnson, her husband is held for questioning. His only explanation to hospital authorities was that his wife was sick.

A postmortem examination was held today to determine the cause of Mrs. Johnson's death.

Metals Long in Use
Specimens of iron have been found in Assyrian and Egyptian ruins. In the British museum there is a piece of iron believed to date from about 4000 B. C. Copper was known and used by man from the most remote periods. Its alloy with tin (bronze) was the first metallic compound in common use. Copper remains have been found in Egypt dating back to the Fourth dynasty, 3800-4700 B. C.

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.
The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

what matters
Ardor and Constructive Talent.

you are a worm you are a worm. The lover who makes little weak t bars low down over his t suffers with an inferiority complex, and hesitates to express himself. He will cross them often over to the left, and he usually gets "left" also, from procrastination. There is nothing of virtue in self condemnation. It means to the character analyst "I want you to praise me, and that is why I slum myself."

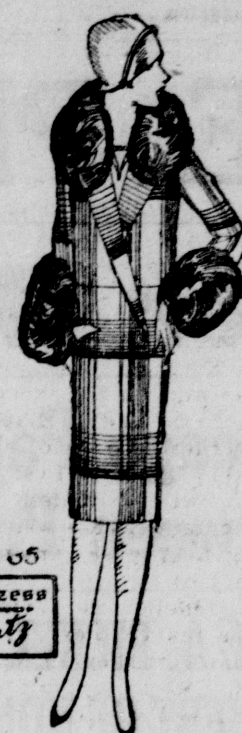

One finds ardor and enthusiasm in t bars which are crossed high, and more often to the right than the left. They are long bars—not clipped short. If a girl is so lucky as to receive a letter with high crossed t bars, connected with the word following as a beginning stroke, she may know she has an enthusiastic sweetheart, as well as one with good constructive and planning ability.

Terminals which curve upward as though reaching out for better things betray ardor, as well as large loops to letters like h, k, etc.

Metals Long in Use

Specimens of iron have been found in Assyrian and Egyptian ruins. In the British museum there is a piece of iron believed to date from about 4000 B. C. Copper was known and used by man from the most remote periods. Its alloy with tin (bronze) was the first metallic compound in common use. Copper remains have been found in Egypt dating back to the Fourth dynasty, 3800-4700 B. C.

Now Important Work

In former days the making of sweetmeats was part of a druggist's business, but in the earlier half of the Nineteenth century it developed into a separate industry in England.

Youth Not Happiest

Youth is not the age of pleasure. We then expect too much and we are therefore exposed to daily disappointments and mortifications. When we are a little older and have brought down our wishes to our experience, then we become calm and begin to enjoy ourselves.—Lord Liverpool.

QUICKLY SOOTHED

BY THIS SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up. A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

WOMAN FATALLY WOUNDED BY NEGRO BUTLER

Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Mrs. Margaret Humphrey, wife of a Los Angeles department store executive, was shot and probably fatally wounded at her home here today by Richard Ewelle, negro butler, who committed suicide after failing to assault her.

Mrs. Humphrey said Ewelle chased her through several rooms in the house and then drew a revolver and fired. After she had fallen to the floor, she said the negro fired a shot through his head.

AMERICA'S OVERSEAS PHILANTHROPY

DR. WILL DURANT, author and philosopher, spent the past Summer traveling through Bible Lands as the guest of the Near East Relief. He came to the conclusion, he says, "that if there is any people in the world that does not care about money it is the American."

"I have seen Americans scattering their money lavishly in all the countries of Europe and in Asia," he reports. "I have never seen such generosity or such readiness to help in any other country in the world."

"In Palestine and Syria I saw the orphans being taken care of by Near East Relief at Beirut in trade schools, where I could see human character almost visibly forming under the influence of tasks quietly and competently performed. They were doing carpentry, shoe making, iron work, printing. They all had the happiness that comes from doing things, from growing freely in the process of doing, and my enthusiasm increased every minute that I was there."

It was surprising to Dr. Durant to see an organization, mostly financed by the churches of America, entering into such intimate relationship with the representatives of all the various creeds. It seemed to him possible that a new Christianity might thus be born—that if the men in this organization could forget the theological barriers that have divided the various creeds in our country and divided Christians from other decent people in the world, civilization is moving forward with reasonable speed.

"This is an astounding thing!" observes Dr. Durant. "Imagine Christians practicing Christianity! To see a big organization, founded upon the very essence of Christianity—the Golden Rule—and practicing it! It opened my eyes. It opened my heart. And there is nothing that so delights me as the thought that I can do one little modest bit in that work."

"I believe that America will, as her greatest achievement, contribute to the world the example of generosity. Surely, never in the history of the world has any people given with the abandon that has characterized the generosity of the American people in the last fifteen years. When I think that in the very heat of our misunderstanding with Russia we poured millions of dollars into her country to help her people; when I think that barely a year after we had been in the deepest conflict with the German people we sent millions of money to help them; and when I see all that we have done in the Near East, I protest that any nation that does such things does not deserve the calumny that is sometimes thrown at us."

"I am glad that the observance of Golden Rule Sunday, on December 4, is being promoted throughout the land. I had not heard much about the Golden Rule for about forty years. I had heard all sorts of sermons about theology. I heard sermons in beautiful churches, but out of a thousand sermons I didn't hear more than three about the Golden Rule. If Christianity can draw back the noblest figure in human history from all the impediments, the dogma, that have clouded him from the eyes of the world, what an achievement and epochal event that will be!"

"I think the whole world can be converted to Christianity if Christianity can be converted to Christ. The Golden Rule perhaps is practicable if we all make up our minds to practice it individually and nationally."

THE CHILD DRIVER

YOUTH, with its vision high as the stars, its courage, so brave that it borders on recklessness, its boundless enthusiasm that will send boys to span the skies between the continents and make girls accept the challenge of the English channel and dare to brave its waters, is a glorious time. But because of the lack of discretion which only years of experience can bring, it is necessary for those who are older and wiser to control the activities of those who have not felt the need of tempering the life urge.

Youth, if let alone, will kill itself rather than store dynamic forces against the day when it can be properly guided into paths of service instead of being broken in useless paths. Therefore, the juvenile court, the sheriff, and police department are to be congratulated in their efforts to break up the use of automobiles by young children.

State laws prohibit children under 16 years old from driving motor vehicles and provide that any adult furnishing a car to a minor may be prosecuted. If the condition is serious enough to warrant such law, that law should be enforced. If it is not, it should be struck from the statute books. Laws are made to be enforced, not broken, and the child driving problem is one that requires the co-operation of the entire community.—Swift County Monitor.

YES, Christmas is very near and the housewife is busy with her needlework. The holiday spirit is permeating business and social relations. And in connection with Christmas, let us have as little as possible of this so-called "X-mas" designation. Time is not so precious these days that one cannot afford to write out in full the word "Christmas."

THE corn borer is a dread pest and methods of extermination are to be discussed by 63 county agents at a three day meeting at University Farm, starting December 13. Congress has realized the gravity of the situation in regard to the corn crop, appropriating $10,000,000 to be used in retarding spread of the corn borer.

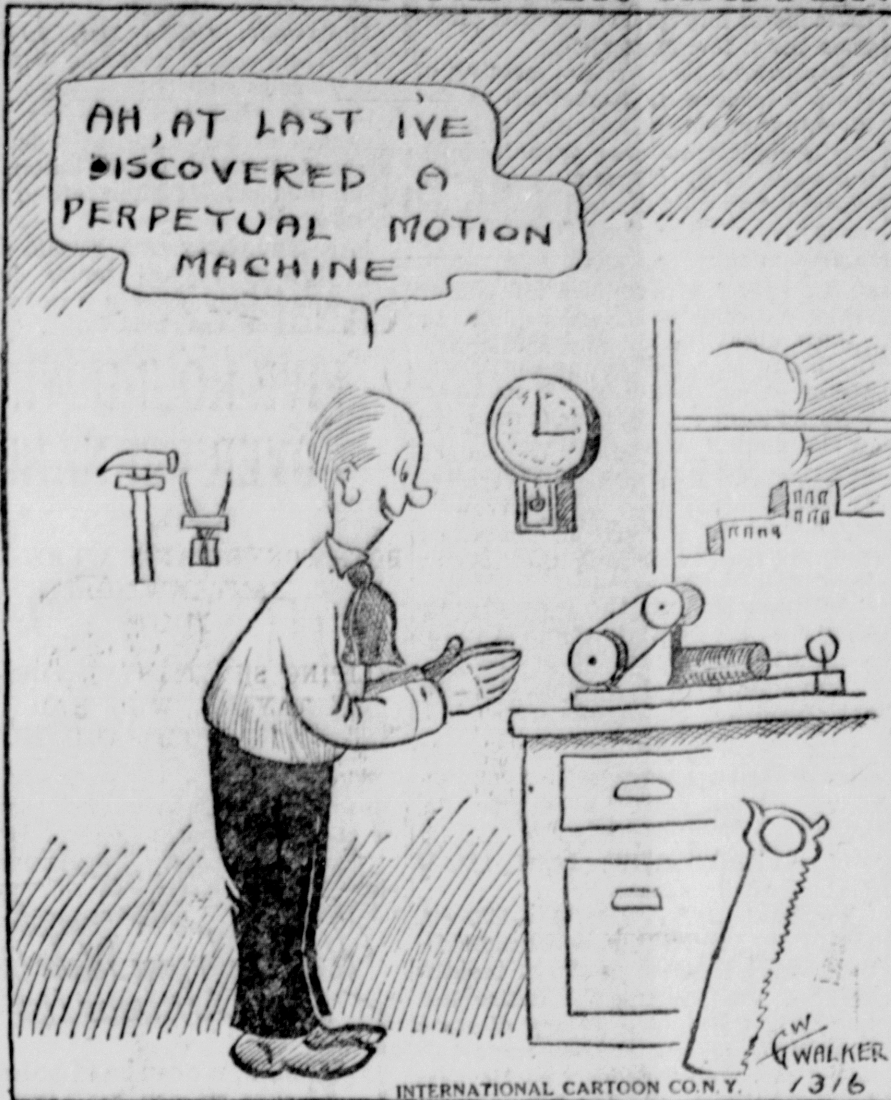

WHY does the average individual in a forest region not feel more keenly his responsibilities as a citizen, first, to prevent destructive forest fires, and second, to volunteer his services to control them; whereas, if a fire occurred in a town he would be the first to grab a bucket of water and mount the ladder?

THE Sixth district rally of the American Legion posts and Auxiliaries will be conducted at Crosby Wednesday. The rally will be featured by a program of addresses by district and state officers, including Mrs. J. M. Bishop, president of the auxiliary, and State Commander L. E. Zumwinkle.

Do you enjoy the beauties of the woods and streams? Pass this richest of heritages on to your children. Save the trees, birds, fish and game.

to equip itself with supplies of caution, judgment, and vitality.

Courage must carry with it a certain amount of independence, and be immune to what people say. The word "cliff," written above, shows a person beginning his word with a c smaller than the rest of the word, showing lack of courage, and ending it with a very weak f. This f signifies one who is led this way and that by other minds and switched easily from his path.

The person who pens straight lines more than curled scrolled ones relies more on his own powers. High straight beginning strokes to capital M's, J's and G's ending in a straight stroke, capital H made with the bars wide apart, a large capital C, long or fairly long t bars growing larger or not diminishing at the end, and placed well up on the bar, mean independence of thought. If there is energy and will-power in the writing there will be moral courage when letters are high above the line.

SARAJEVO SINKS INTO LETHARGY

That's Where War Started, If You've Forgotten.

Sarajevo, Yugo-Slavia.—This little Bosnian town, where the World War started, is getting the reputation of being one of the most picturesque and sleepy towns in the world.

Sarajevo's "ninety-and-nine" minarets and its "forty-times-forty" cemeteries, mausoleums and mosques symbolize the lethargy and oriental fatalism of the city.

All over the town are slender white minarets that look like funeral shafts against the gray mountains. Hither, thither and yon are Moslem cemeteries, pictures of abandonment and desolation. The headstones are toppled over, broken, leaning in every direction. The Moslems apparently do not pay much attention to their dead.

The abandoned cemeteries are typical of the spirit of indifference and negligence which dominates the town. There is a saying in Bosnia, applied especially to a homely woman, that "She is as unattractive and uninteresting as a Turkish cemetery."

The old quarter of the city is dirty and full of odors, but withal is extraordinarily picturesque and colorful. Everywhere are labyrinths of bazaars, displaying fine copperware, silver filigree work, delicately made linens and laces, rugs and other oriental wares. The streets, especially the narrow and devious lanes in the Turkish quarter, present scenes of endless variety and interest.

Women dressed in fairly modern European style elbow the ghostly figures of black draped, heavily veiled Turkish women. Gayly clad Moslem girls, with bright woolen scarves over their heads, slide deftly in and out through the crowd. In the narrow, boothlike bazaars Mohammedan men in their national dress gaze bewilderingly at a group of American tourists, dressed in short skirts and "plus fours."

Flippancies

"Aren't your remarks sometimes rather flippant?"
"Perhaps I am overdoing my pose," confided Senator Sorghum. "Sometimes a man has to try to be funny in order to convey the impression that he is not scared."

Hub!

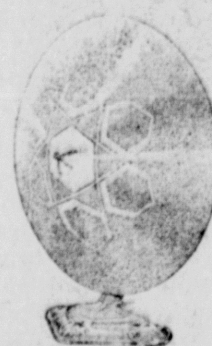

"I'll be able to make a good Frenchman," remarked the sheik.
"Howcum?" asked his sheba.
"Well, kissing you boyish-looking flappers is so much like kissing regular boys, I'll be able to kiss men without batting an eye," he replied.

"The marvelous clarity of tone in the Bosch Radio gives it a decided value over every other instrument now on the market. What impressed me more than anything else was the fact that the tones were so perfect as to give the impression that I was in the same room with the artist instead of miles away. The Bosch Radio also has an advantage in that there is an utter absence of unharmonious sounds so characteristic in other instruments I have heard."

WHALE GOES WAY

OF CLIPPER SHIP

Once Great Industry Is Rapidly Decreasing.

Whangamunui, New Zealand.—Whales are decreasing in numbers so rapidly that they will be as scarce as sailing ships in a few years.

The New Zealand government has limited the number of whaling ships in its waters in an effort to conserve the world's stock, which is now mostly in the Ross sea.

A century ago whale catching in New Zealand waters was at its height and around 1825 the only white men in the dominion were those at the many whaling stations around the coasts of South and North Islands.

Since then the Ross sea has been nearly fished dry of whales, and now only one firm is permitted to go whaling on Ross sea and Antarctic waters. The concession is held by a Norwegian firm, which pays the New Zealand government $1,000 a month and a royalty of 50 cents a gallon on whale oil obtained. It has three whalers, small, fast vessels, each equipped with a "torpedo" harpoon, and a "parent" ship of 12,000 tons equipped as a "whale factory."

Average Fifteen Feet Long.

The whales move in schools of 20. Some are large, others small but the average length of the beast is 15 feet over his back. When the chasers have their load of whales they are brought on to the "factory" for cutting up and extraction of the valuable oil and glycerin.

In the last three years whale oil production has been increasing. Down in the Ross sea the 12,000 tonner "factory" produced 711,640 gallons of oil in 1924, a year later 1,286,000 gallons and last year more than 1,500,000 gallons. These quantities form 90 per cent of the world supply of whale oil.

There are still one or two whaling stations in New Zealand home waters around Cook strait and North Auckland, but the whales there are small, known as "humpbacks," whose chasing and capture is becoming less of an industry among the crews of government chasers than a first-class sport with a thrill.

Humpback Is Strong.

The humpback, though small, is as strong as a sea elephant, and slippery. Harpooning a Cook strait whale from a gun on board a bobbing motor vessel needs nerve and an accurate eye.

In a year's whaling in Cook strait and down Marlborough channel only 48 whales were taken, worth $30,000 for their 250 tons of oil and 40 tons of bone dust.

The world's record whale—or, rather, his skeleton—is on show still in Canterbury museum. He was found stranded on Corvair bay in the Australian bight. From the tip of the tail over back to the muzzle it measured nearly 101 feet.

COACHES AND

ATHLETIC HEADS

IN CONFERENCE

ASSEMBLE AT CHICAGO, GUIDE DESTINIES OF ALL WESTERN CONFERENCE TEAMS

SCHEDULES ARRANGED FOR ALL SPORTS EXCEPT FOOTBALL AND BASKETBALL

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Coaches and athletic directors who guide the destinies of all western conference teams assembled here today for their annual two day meeting.

Schedules were being arranged for all sports except football and basketball. Inasmuch as the football schedule was drawn up earlier in the year for four seasons, there were no Big Ten dates open, but coaches were scurrying about to fill in open dates with non-conference opponents.

Basketball schedules for the season which opens shortly after the new year also have been drawn up, and the cage coaches were interested only in interpretation of rules.

Baseball and track, major sports in the Big Ten, occupied most attention at the meeting. Several schools were bidding for the conference indoor and outdoor meets. For the past decade the indoor meet has been held in Patten gymnasium, Northwestern.

This season, however, the University of Iowa opens a new field house, and it seemed likely the Hawkeye school would be awarded the contest.

Northwestern, with Dyche stadium is bidding for the outdoor meet, which was held last year at Madison, Wis., and the year before at Columbus, O.

There was a hint that reports of professionalism at certain universities would be brought before the athletic directors. The rumors had to do with alleged participation of college athletes in semi-professional baseball.

Minor sports—swimming, wrestling, hockey and gymnastics—will be scheduled at the conference.

Three banquets were planned for the week end. Northwestern university's annual dinner, at which the captain is chosen, and the Commonwealth club's dinner to promote football relations between all universities in the country were on tonight's bill. Tomorrow night the annual dinner given the Illinois team by Chicago alumni was programmed.

NEW CLUB

ROBINSON OF BROOKLYN DODGERS READY FOR ANY KIND OF TRADES

DREYFUSS AND WATTERS OF PIRATES ARE "SITTING PRETTY"

By FRANK GETTY (United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 2.—(UP)—While the annual baseball meeting which starts in Dallas tomorrow is properly a minor league party, everyone who knows baseball knows that no major league club will fail to be represented.

The big fish will be around ready to gobble up the most desirable of the little fish, and many a man who is only a bush leaguer today will be headed for fast company before the week is out.

En route to Dallas to sit in at the proceedings as "unofficial observers," representatives of the 16 major league clubs made known to the United Press their particular requirements in building for 1928.

Secretary Grabiner of the White Sox, for instance, admitted that he, Comiskey and Ray Schalk were looking around for what would amount to just about a brand new ball club, if all the deals he had in mind went through.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers is another who would trade his club, uniforms and all, if the right opportunity presented itself.

On the other hand, Barney Dreyfuss and Sam Watters of the Pirates declared they were "sitting pretty," with the Cuyler deal out of the way, while Bill Veck of the Cubs said he "only wished the season would open tomorrow."

Here is what some of the other clubs have on their minds as the minor league meeting gets under way:

Cincinnati Reds—No trades pending, but Jack Hendricks is in Dallas looking for catchers. George Kelly is trading material if the right sort of offer comes along.

Cleveland Indians—Billy Evans, new general manager, weary of talking out of both sides of the syndicate, hot after Lucky Harris of the Washingtons for a manager. All the Indians want is strengthening at first, second, third and in the outfield. George Burns, a year ago voted the most valuable player in the league, is available if the right bid is made.

Boston Braves—Judge Fuchs, having presented Jack Slattery, former college coach, with a near tail-ender, is willing to add some batting strength to give his new manager a fair break, if the strength isn't too costly.

New York Yankees—Well fixed except for young pitchers to replace Shawkey and Reuther, who were released the other day. Ed Barrow is hopeful that Robertson, obtained from St. Paul, will plug the hole at third base.

St. Louis Browns—Ready for a shake-up. "I'll trade the whole dam club," says Phil Ball. This indicates that George Sisler might be used in a trade.

New York Giants—Out for battery men, with an eye open for an outfielder. John McGraw playing with the idea of adding Ty Cobb or Tris Speaker to the club, purely as a drawing card.

Chicago Cubs—Ready to go. "We're not worrying about second and third base," says President Veck. "Everyone else very kindly is worrying for us. We've got six candidates for the two jobs."

Chicago White Sox—Perhaps the most ambitious of all the majors. Grabiner, club secretary, admits they would like Sisler, Goslin, Bob Meusel, Pengough, Gazella, Myles Thomas and others. Willing to give up Willie Kamm and Bib Falk, the two best players on the club, to get a raft of stars. Earl Sheely is trading material.

Brooklyn Robins—With a ball club made of Jess Petty, Dazzy Vance and Little else, Uncle Robbie has eyes, ears and pocketbook wide open.

Washington Senators—Clark Griffith out to save money and build up a young ball club. Judge, Rice and Speaker on the market. Would like to swap Judge and Rice to Chicago for Sheely and Falk, or would prefer to acquire Johnny Neun as first sacker.

Philadelphia Athletics—Connie Mack also in a retrenching mood. Having made the mistake of firing with both wallets in a desperate shot for the American league pennant in a year when the New York Yankees were to turn up unbeatable, Cornelius has decided to go back to first principles and browse about with youngsters for players.

St. Louis Cardinals—"We expect to have the best team in our history next year," Sam Breadon, president, said at St. Louis. "About Rhem and Bell, whom the fans have been trying to trade off for us, I think the chances are 75 per cent both will be with us again. We have received no offers for them and I think they both have a lot of good ball left in them."

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Difference of opinion is said to be the foundation of horse racing; certainly it is the very soul of the seasonal pastime of picking "All-America" football teams.

Occasionally, the difference is sufficiently striking to bear analysis, even at this late stage of the season.

It is easy to understand how a dozen or more great backs are chosen from as many college elevens for "All-America" honors, with no one man able to say which is the greatest.

But what are we to think when a football team has two star ends, and half the experts select one of them for "All-America" honors and disregard the other entirely, while the remainder of the experts do exactly the opposite?

Take the case of the University of Georgia and its great wing men, Captain Shiver and Nash. A consensus of southern sports writers to whom I put the question of "All-America" possibilities unanimously named Shiver. They said that Nash was good, but that the captain was the real goods.

Whereupon several coaches of the Southern Conference and one prominent "All-America" selector promptly elected Nash for the highest of mythical elevens.

The same thing was true, to a lesser degree, at Yale this year. Everyone recognized that Yale had a great pair of ends in Stew Scott and Dwight Fishwick. Experts who chose "All-Eastern" elevens wanted to include at least one of the pair. But which to choose? A consensus of sports writers in the East was divided as evenly as you please. Half named Scott and the other half Fishwick.

Having seen the Yale ends in action against Army, Princeton and Harvard, I find myself as evenly divided as the experts, figuratively speaking. Scott, I believe, was better at receiving passes. Some of his catches were positively marvelous. He made one in the Princeton game which seemed impossible to achieve, leaping high out of a group of Tiger secondary defense men and bringing down the ball. This happened just before the pass to Fishwick which scored the touchdown that beat the Tiger.

Fishwick was perhaps the more alert, sifting through, blocking kicks and recovering fumbles. Both were deadly tacklers, frequently bringing their men down for losses before an opposing play was fairly started.

Another case of such striking difference of opinion about two men playing similar positions on a team has to do with the tackles of the University of Pennsylvania. The consensus of Eastern sports writers named Captain Hake as just about the best in the section and the season. Yet we find the other Penn tackle, Smith, chosen in preference on a more or less official "All-America," with Hake left out in the cold.

The fact is that, lacking a definite standard, "All-America" elevens nowadays must be considered as matters of difference of opinion.

BOTH CONTESTANTS WERE OVER BANTAMWEIGHT LIMIT

FILIPINO SUBSTITUTED FOR BUD TAYLOR, WHO HAD INJURED HAND

New York, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Tony Canzoneri, contender for the bantamweight championship now conceded to Bud Taylor, won an impressive victory in ten rounds over Ignacio Fernandez, young Filipino, last night.

Canzoneri won the decision in five rounds, three were given the gaudy little Filipino fighter, and two were draws.

Both were over the bantamweight limit. Fernandez had been substituted for Bud Taylor who injured a hand in training and has since been suspended by the New York athletic commission.

Kid Francis, of Italy, bantamweight, won an eight round decision over Archie Bell, of Brooklyn, in the semi-final.

Andy Martin, of Boston, 125, won a decision over Lew Perfetti, 125, of New York.

Progress Being Made in

Dairy Industry Is Good

Not so many years ago the milk production of the average cow was around 3,000 pounds a year. Now it is over 4,000 pounds a year and it will go higher. Last year 12,200 cows owned by 700 Illinois dairymen averaged 7,566 pounds of milk. The average feed cost of these cows was $77.53 and the average value of the product $187.65. These cows were "owned and operated" by men who were interested in their business, for they were members of dairy herd improvement associations. How would it do for some of our orators to go and tell them that we know enough about production, and that prosperity lies in something else?—Ohio Farmer.

Ripon, England, has had an official hornblower for more than a thousand years. If an inhabitant can outblow the hornblower in a contest he gets the job.

JOESTING HONORS COACH AND TEAMMATES IN HIS TALK

Owatonna, Minn., Dec. 2.—(UP)—The home-folks last night paid tribute to Herb Joesting.

Although the armory holds but 250 persons comfortably, nearly 300 found room within its walls to honor the all-American fullback and captain of the 1927 Gopher football team.

And when Herb had his say, he, in turn, honored his coach, Dr. Clarence W. Spears, whom he characterized as "the greatest, the cleanest and the fairest coach you can find in any university of the country."

Then Herb's teammates came in for their share of the glory.

"It takes more than 11 men and a coach to make a football team," Joesting told his admirers. "You usually hear about the man who carries the ball," he added, "but it takes the men on the line to do the tackling, and we had some mighty good tacklers on the team this year."

John J. Skinner, superintendent of schools here, under whom Herb was a student, was a speaker.

Honey From Gall

If any speak ill of thee, flee home to thy own conscience, and examine thine heart; if thou be guilty, it is a just correction; if not guilty, it is a fair instruction; wake up of both; so shalt thou distill honey out of gall, and out of an open enemy create a secret friend.—Quarles.

WHITE SOX NEED BRAND NEW CLUB

ROBINSON OF BROOKLYN DODGERS READY FOR ANY KIND OF TRADES

DREYFUSS AND WATTERS OF PITTSBURGH ARE "SITTING PRETTY"

By FRANK GETTY (United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 2.—(UP)—While the annual baseball meeting which starts in Dallas tomorrow is properly a minor league party, everyone who knows baseball knows that no major league club will fail to be represented.

The big fish will be around ready to gobble up the most desirable of the little fish, and many a man who is only a bush leaguer today will be headed for fast company before the week is out.

En route to Dallas to sit in at the proceedings as "unofficial observers," representatives of the 16 major league clubs made known to the United Press their particular requirements in building for 1928.

Secretary Grabner of the White Sox, for instance, admitted that he, Comiskey and Ray Schalk were looking around for what would amount to just about a brand new ball club, if all the deals he had in mind went through.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers is another who would trade his club, uniforms and all, if the right opportunity presented itself.

On the other hand, Barney Dreyfuss and Sam Watters of the Pirates declared they were "sitting pretty," with the Cuyler deal out of the way, while Bill Veck of the Cubs said he "only wished the season would open tomorrow."

Here is what some of the other clubs have on their minds as the minor league meeting gets under way:

Cincinnati Reds—No trades pending, but Jack Hendricks is in Dallas looking for catchers. George Kelly is trading material if the right sort of offer comes along.

Cleveland Indians—Billy Evans, new general manager, weary of talking out of both sides of the mouth, not after Lucky Harris of Washington for a manager. All the Indians are strengthening at first, second, third and in the outfield. George Burns, a year ago voted the most valuable player in the league, is available if the right bid is made.

Boston Braves—Judge Fuchs, having presented Jack Slaterry, former college coach, with a near tail-end, is willing to add some batting strength to give his new manager a fair break, if the strength isn't too costly.

New York Yankees—Well fixed except for young pitchers to replace Shawkey and Reuther, who were released the other day. Ed Barrow is hopeful that Robertson, obtained from St. Paul, will plug the hole at third base.

St. Louis Browns—Ready for a shake-up. "I'll trade the whole dam club," says Phil Ball. This indicates that George Sisler might be used in a trade.

New York Giants—Out for battery men, with an eye open for an outfielder. John McGraw playing with the idea of adding Ty Cobb or Tris Speaker to the club, purely as a drawing card.

Chicago Cubs—Ready to go. "We're not worrying about second and third base," says President Veck. "Everyone else very kindly is worrying for us. We've got six candidates for the two jobs."

Chicago White Sox—Perhaps the most ambitious of all the major league clubs, club secretary, admits they would like Sisler, Goslin, Bob Meusel, Bengough, Gazella, Myles Thomas and others. Willing to give up Willie Kamm and Bib Falk, the two best players on the club, to get a raft of stars. Earl Sheely is trading material.

Brooklyn Robins—With a ball club made of Jess Petty, Dazzy Vance and little else, Uncle Robbie has eyes, ears and pocketbook wide open. Washington Senators—Clark Griffith out to save money and build up a young ball club. Judge, Rice and Speaker on the market. Would like to swap Judge and Rice to Chicago for Sheely and Falk, or would prefer to acquire Johnny Neun as first sacker.

Philadelphia Athletics—Connie Mack also in a retrenching mood. Having made the mistake of firing with both wallets in a desperate shot for the American league pennant in a year when the New York Yankees were to turn up unbeatable, Cornelius has decided to go back to first principles and browse about with youngsters for players.

St. Louis Cardinals—"We expect to have the best team in our history next year," Sam Breadon, president, said at St. Louis. "About Rhem and Bell, whom the fans have been trying to trade off for us, I think the chances are 75 per cent both will be with us again. We have received no offers for them and I think they both have a lot of good ball left in them."

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Difference of opinion is said to be the foundation of horse racing; certainly it is the very soul of the seasonal pastime of picking "All-America" football teams.

Occasionally, the difference is sufficiently striking to bear analysis, even at this late stage of the season.

It is easy to understand how a dozen or more great backs are chosen from as many college elevens for "All-America" honors, with no one man able to say which is the greatest.

But what are we to think when a football team has two star ends, and half the experts select one of them for "All-America" honors and disregard the other entirely, while the remainder of the experts do exactly the opposite?

Take the case of the University of Georgia and its great wing men, Captain Shiver and Nash. A consensus of southern sports writers to whom I put the question of "All-America" possibilities unanimously named Shiver. They said that Nash was good, but that the captain was the real goods.

Whereupon several coaches of the Southern Conference and one prominent "All-America" selector promptly elected Nash for the highest of mythical elevens.

The same thing was true, to a lesser degree, at Yale this year. Everyone recognized that Yale had a great pair of ends in Stew Scott and Dwight Fishwick. Experts who chose "All-Eastern" elevens wanted to include at least one of the pair. But which to choose? A consensus of sports writers in the East was divided as evenly as you please. Half named Scott and the other half Fishwick.

Having seen the Yale ends in action against Army, Princeton and Harvard, I find myself as evenly divided as the experts, figuratively speaking. Scott, I believe, was better at receiving passes. Some of his catches were positively marvelous. He made one in the Princeton game which seemed impossible to achieve, leaping high out of a group of Tiger secondary defense men and bringing down the ball. This happened just before the pass to Fishwick which scored the touchdown that beat the Tiger.

Fishwick was perhaps the more alert, sifting through, blocking kicks and recovering fumbles. Both were deadly tacklers, frequently bringing their men down for losses before an opposing play was fairly started.

Another case of such striking difference of opinion about two men playing similar positions on a team has to do with the tackles of the University of Pennsylvania. The consensus of Eastern sports writers named Captain Hake as just about the best in the section and the season. Yet we find the other Penn tackle, Smith, chosen in preference on a more or less official "All-America," with Hake left out in the cold.

The fact is that, lacking a definite standard, "All-America" elevens nowadays must be considered as matters of difference of opinion.

CANZONERI IN FIVE-ROUND WIN OVER FERNANDEZ

BOTH CONTESTANTS WERE OVER BANTAMWEIGHT LIMIT

FILIPINO SUBSTITUTED FOR BUD TAYLOR, WHO HAD INJURED HAND

New York, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Tony Canzoneri, contender for the bantamweight championship now conceded to Bud Taylor, won an impressive victory in ten rounds over Ignacio Fernandez, young Filipino, last night.

Canzoneri won the decision in five rounds, three were given the game little Filipino fighter, and two were draws.

Both were over the bantamweight limit. Fernandez had been substituted for Bud Taylor who injured a hand in training and has since been suspended by the New York athletic commission.

Kid Francis, of Italy, bantamweight, won an eight round decision over Archie Bell, of Brooklyn, in the semi-final.

Andy Martin, of Boston, 125, won a decision over Lew Perfetti, 125, of New York.

Sow's Ear Salad Imminent

People generally have accepted as true the statement that you can't make a silk purse out of a pig's ear. Yet we have a sort of notion that a woman could make a salad out of it. At any rate, women have made salads of everything else.—Detroit Free Press.

Progress Being Made in Dairy Industry Is Good

Not so many years ago the milk production of the average cow was around 3,000 pounds a year. Now it is over 4,000 pounds a year and it will go higher. Last year 12,200 cows owned by 700 Illinois dairymen averaged 7,500 pounds of milk. The average feed cost of these cows was $77.53 and the average value of the product $187.65. These cows were "owned and operated" by men who were interested in their business, for they were members of dairy herd improvement associations. How would it do for some of our orators to go and tell them that we know enough about production, and that prosperity lies in something else?—Ohio Farmer.

HOME FOLKS PAY TRIBUTE TO JOESTING

OWATONNA ARMORY CROWDED WITH WELCOMING FRIENDS

JOESTING HONORS COACH AND TEAMMATES IN HIS TALK

Owatonna, Minn., Dec. 2.—(UP)—The home-folks last night paid tribute to Herb Joesting.

Although the armory holds but 250 persons comfortably, nearly 300 found room within its walls to honor the all-American fullback and captain of the 1927 Gopher football team.

And when Herb had his say, he, in turn, honored his coach, Dr. Clarence W. Spears, whom he characterized as "the greatest, the cleanest and the fairest coach you can find in any university of the country."

Then Herb's teammates came in for their share of the glory. "It takes more than 11 men and a coach to make a football team," Joesting told his admirers. "You usually hear about the man who catches the ball," he added, "but it takes the men on the line to do the tackling, and we had some mighty good tacklers on the team this year."

John J. Skinner, superintendent of schools here, under whom Herb was a student, was a speaker.

Professional Hornblowers

Ripon, England, has had an official hornblower for more than a thousand years. Taking up his position in the market square just before nine o'clock each night, he must send out a long, mournful blast on his horn before the sound of the last cathedral chime dies away. If an inhabitant can outblow the hornblower in a contest he gets the job.

500 NIGHT OWLS FIRST TO CATCH GLIMPSE OF NEW CAR AT 3 A. M.

New York, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The new Ford received a welcome from New York today almost rivaling Lindbergh's.

The parade of Ford enthusiasts began at 3 A. M. when five hundred night owls peered through the windows of the largest saleroom on Broadway to get a glimpse of the new models.

The crowd soon swelled to such proportions that police reserves had to be called out to keep the crowd from crashing the plate glass windows.

More than 10,000 persons filled three of the largest sales rooms during the first two hours after the doors were opened. Extra police men were being sent to dealers in all parts of the city to handle the crowds.

Ferries from New Jersey brought many Ford admirers from across the Hudson. They were so numerous that they stopped traffic at the dock at 125th street.

A steady rain was falling all morning but this did not stop the crowds. State Executioner Robert Elliott and Edgar F. Hazleton, attorney for Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder, were among the first to view the models. Elliott said he believed he would be in the market for one soon.

A Jamaica saleroom received five orders within the first two minutes after the doors had opened, and approximately two hundred orders were taken in the Bronx.

Twelve salesmen in one Manhattan saleroom said that up to 11 o'clock they were receiving orders faster than they could write them.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Chicago was interested but not exceedingly excited over the new Ford car today.

Four of the new models were on display at strategic showrooms, and crowds thronged around each of the places as soon as they were opened.

The chief display was in a show window of the Palmer House on State street in the heart of the business district. Probably 15,000 persons had seen the new model there by 10 A. M., and a crowd half a block long waited to get into the showroom for closer inspection. It took about half an hour to get into the show room.

No reason was given for the postponement today.

Capt. Frederick A. Giles Postpones Attempt to Fly to Honolulu

San Francisco, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Capt. Frederick A. Giles, British airman, today definitely postponed his attempt to fly to Honolulu and Australia until next spring.

Giles, who twice took off for Honolulu on the first leg of his proposed 9,000-mile flight only to turn back when he encountered adverse weather conditions, said he was convinced another attempt would be foolhardy at this season of the year.

"Experienced aviators have advised me that it is not wise to attempt an ocean flight during the winter," Giles said, "and I am inclined to believe them."

Giles has obtained a renewal of his English passport as a visitor to the United States.

Bahama Industries

Fruit culture is on the increase in the Bahama Islands and is becoming an important industry. Tomatoes, pineapples and oranges are cultivated. Sugar and sisal are the principal commodities on many of the islands. Oxen, sheep, horses and other live stock have been introduced from Europe. They thrive well but not much attention is paid to live-stock raising.

Vulnerable Spot

The solar plexus is a network of nerves in the abdomen behind the stomach. Just how "solar" became associated with such an affair is a mystery to the word sharks. Possibly it had an astrological origin. Astrologers may have once supposed his particular plexus was peculiarly susceptible to the sun's influence. It is more probable, however, that this particular plexus was thought to resemble the sun.

FARMER SAYS HE TRIED TO BLOW UP SCHOOL

IN ORDER TO MURDER HIS SWEETHEART WHO TAUGHT THERE

2 STICKS OF DYNAMITE PLACED IN SCHOOL STOVE EXPLODED

Dana, Ill., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Hiram Reed, 24, son of a prosperous farmer today confessed he attempted to blow up a country school house in order to murder his sweetheart who taught there.

The young woman, Miss Iola Bradford, 23, daughter of a retired minister, entered the school house yesterday morning and started to build a fire in the stove. The match had scarcely been struck until two sticks of dynamite placed in the stove by Reed discharged, shattering the windows and doors and sending Miss Bradford into a heap.

School children—none of whom was in the building when the blast occurred—were the first to discover the tragedy. One small girl was walking up the path and about to enter when the windows crashed.

Miss Bradford was seriously injured. She was taken to a nearby farm house where attending physicians said her chances of recovery were slight.

Authorities succeeded in keeping news of the near tragedy confined to the few nearby farm homes. They conducted their investigation quietly and last night arrested Reed.

After all night questioning, Reed confessed this morning that it was he who planted the dynamite. There were two sticks, he said.

Reason for the attempted murder, he said, was the fact Miss Bradford was an expectant mother.

He was to have married her Sunday.

Emblem of Battles

The red poppy has always been associated with the battlefields of Europe, particularly of Flanders. Contemporary writers mention the profusion of poppies which grew up after the battles of Ramillies, Malplaquet, Fontenoy and Waterloo. Lord Macaulay alludes to this fact in Chapter 20 of his History of England. In the account of William III's defeat in the battle of Landen in 1693.

MISSOURI HIGH COURT HANDS DOWN DECISION ON "BUCKETSHOP"

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Sitting en banc, the Missouri state supreme court today handed down a "bucketshop" decision attacking the alleged tendency of federal legislation to encroach upon states' rights. The court affirmed a fine of $1,000 imposed upon the B. C. Christopher Grain Co., Kansas City, for operating in office at Sedalia, Mo., where "pre-empted" buying and selling of grain, without contemplated actual deliveries, was permitted.

POLICE WITHOUT CLUE IN MURDER OF BOOTLEGGER

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Police were without a clue today in the murder of Harry Rothman, bootlegger, whose body was found on a road nine miles north of Kansas City early yesterday.

Two persons, Helen McKee and Frank Wilson, were held for questioning. The couple had been seen with Rothman several hours before he was shot.

Bahama Industries

Fruit culture is on the increase in the Bahama Islands and is becoming an important industry. Tomatoes, pineapples and oranges are cultivated. Sponge and sisal are the principal commodities on many of the islands. Oxen, sheep, horses and other live stock have been introduced from Europe. They thrive well but not much attention is paid to live-stock raising.

Vulnerable Spot

The solar plexus is a network of nerves in the abdomen behind the stomach. Just how "solar" became associated with such an affair is a mystery to the word sharks. Possibly it had an astrological origin. Astrologers may have once supposed his particular plexus was peculiarly susceptible to the sun's influence. It is more probable, however, that this particular plexus was thought to resemble the sun.

Made American Territory

The bureau of insular affairs says Wake Island was discovered and named by Commissioner Wilkes in his exploring expedition of 1838-43. It was formally taken possession of in the name of the United States by Commodore E. D. Taussig in 1890.

Navigable Rivers

The courts say that those rivers must be regarded as public navigable rivers in law which are navigable in fact, and they are navigable in fact when they are used or are susceptible of being used in their ordinary conditions as highways for commerce.

FARMER SAYS HE TRIED TO BLOW UP SCHOOL

IN ORDER TO MURDER HIS SWEETHEART WHO TAUGHT THERE

2 STICKS OF DYNAMITE PLACED IN SCHOOL STOVE EX-PLoded

Dana, Ill., Dec. 2. — (UP)—Hiram Reed, 24, son of a prosperous farmer, today confessed he attempted to blow up a country school house in order to murder his sweetheart who taught there.

The young woman, Miss Lola Bradford, 23, daughter of a retired minister, entered the school house yesterday morning and started to build a fire in the stove. The match had scarcely been struck until two sticks of dynamite placed in the stove by Reed discharged, shattering the windows and doors and sending Miss Bradford into a heap.

School children—none of whom was in the building when the blast occurred—were the first to discover the tragedy. One small girl was walking up the path and about to enter when the windows crashed.

Miss Bradford was seriously injured. She was taken to a nearby farm house where attending physicians said her chances of recovery were slight.

Authorities succeeded in keeping news of the near tragedy confined to the few nearby farm homes. They conducted their investigation quietly and last night arrested Reed.

After all night questioning, Reed confessed this morning that it was he who planted the dynamite. There were two sticks, he said.

Reason for the attempted murder, he said, was the fact Miss Bradford was an expectant mother.

He was to have married her Sunday.

Emblem of Battles

The red poppy has always been associated with the battlefields of Europe, particularly of Flanders. Contemporary writers mention the profusion of poppies which grew up after the battles of Ramillies, Malplaquet, Fontenoy and Waterloo. Lord Macaulay alludes to this fact in chapter 20 of his History of England. In the account of William III's defeat in the battle of Landen in 1693.

MISSOURI HIGH COURT HANDS DOWN DECISION ON "BUCKETSHOP"

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 2. — (UP)—Sitting en banc, the Missouri state supreme court today handed down a "bucketshop" decision attacking the alleged tendency of federal legislation to encroach upon states' rights.

The court affirmed a fine of $1,000 imposed upon the B. C. Christopher Grain Co., Kansas City, for operating in office at Sedalia, Mo., where "pre-empted" buying and selling of grain, without contemplated actual deliveries, was permitted.

POLICE WITHOUT CLUE IN MURDER OF BOOTLEGGER

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2. — (UP)—Police were without a clue today in the murder of Harry Rothman, bootlegger, whose body was found on a road nine miles north of Kansas City early yesterday.

Two persons, Helen McKee and Frank Wilson, were held for questioning. The couple had been seen with Rothman several hours before he was shot.

GOV. ED JACKSON TO STAND TRIAL ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 2. — (UP)—Gov. Ed Jackson of Indiana must stand trial on an indictment charging him with trying to bribe former Gov. Warren T. McCray in Oct., 1923.

Judge Oscar H. Montgomery today denied a defense motion to quash the indictment against Jackson and two co-defendants.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE, BREAKS HIS NOSE

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 2. — (UP)—A broken nose is all Victor Nyberg Carlson, 30, can boast of today.

It was the closest he could get to death in an attempt at suicide Thursday. He jumped from a fourth floor window of the Sixth Ave. West hotel and landed on the fire escape at the third floor.

"I was disgusted with life," he told police today.

FRANK ZIMDARS KILLED BY TRAIN

Minneapolis, Dec. 2. — (UP)—The body of a man killed here Thursday night by a Northern Pacific train today was identified as that of Frank Zimdars, 70, Big Lake, Minn.

Mr. Zimdars has been living with his daughter here.

THIS SCOURGE WAS DRAGGING HIM DOWN

ALL-BRAN gave him new lease on life when it checked constipation

No matter how chronic constipation has become—no one need give up hope of relief. Read Mr. Williams' cheery message:

"I am on the down-grade in life. Never had any sickness, but of late years have been troubled with constipation. Began to make up my mind that I was about done up. Have taken tablets, eaten fruits, etc., but did not get much help. Began to use your ALL-BRAN twice a day. Have gained 6 pounds. Feel like a fighting cock. Bowels are regular. You have certainly done a lot for humanity."

L. C. WILLIAMS, Rushville, N. Y.

MERCURY DROPS TO 22 BELOW IN NIGHT

Eight Telephone Toll Lines Snap;
Several Water Meters Break,
Others Unimpaired

BEING REPAIRED TODAY

Two Plows Clear Out Drifts on Highways 34, 35 Near Walker and Remer, Aitkin

As the mercury went down to the low point of 22 degrees below zero as the minimum last night this city vied with only a few others for cold weather supremacy of the United States during the past 24 hours.

The thermometer recorded 13 below at 8 o'clock this morning and gave indication of rising as the day progressed.

Eight long distance telephone lines serving Brainerd on the circuit were put out of order by the sub-zero weather last night. The lines however were being repaired today. The following lines were damaged when lines broke due to contraction caused by the extreme cold. The lines affected are: Brainerd to Crosby, two; Brainerd to Duluth, two; Brainerd to Aitkin, two; Brainerd to Tamarack, two.

Telephone lines in the city were not affected and the electric light wires and power lines were unimpaired by the cold. Several water meters however were frozen.

The district office of the state highway department here sent out two plows this morning to clear up drifts reported north of Aitkin on Highway No. 35 and between Walker and Remer on Highway No. 34.

Buses and trains were running on schedule. Benidji reported a minimum of 24 below last night.

PROFITABLE FUR RANCHING

Industry Arising to Supply Raw Fur Market States C. W. Henke

"As I have repeatedly stated the business of breeding and ranching fur bearing animals is simply the outgrowth of the 'cleaning up' process in the supply of animals in the world on the part of careless and inexperienced trappers, poachers, etc., whose activities have been steadily increasing because state laws are inadequate and the numbers of wardens too few to give more than an indifferent sort of protection and enforcement of the laws that we have. The increasing prices offered are also an incentive for illegal trapping. Under such conditions it is but reasonable to suppose, or rather state as a fact, without fear of contradiction, that the future of ranching fur bearing animals is assured. In fact, the demand will have to be supplied from that source and there is no doubt but what a great and growing demand exists. Raw fur imports into the United States stand seventh on the list. This is a fact that will cause even the casual reader to stop and consider for a moment. It is usually an eye opener for the fellow who sits on the side lines and refuses to take any stock in the state's newest and most valuable industry," said C. W. Henke, vice president of Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farms Corporation today.

"Fur ranching is no longer an experiment as so many seem to insist. It is comparatively new in Minnesota but even in this state we have several notable examples of successful and highly profitable ranches. In Canada, Wisconsin, Michigan and eastern states we find ranches that are yearly harvesting up in to the millions of pelts each year and paying substantial dividends to stockholders. The fur industry has always been one of the basic occupations of our people for centuries past. Natural conditions are simply bringing about an evolution in the method of handling and breeding in order to maintain that valuable resource and to insure a supply that will meet to some extent the constantly increasing demand.

"Contrary to the extravagant statements of the 'exploiters,' I am not going to hold out any encouragement to those who undertake fur raising without proper experience, financing and organization. Glowing descriptions of the possibilities of the new business will lead many into it that are wholly unfit and unprepared to come within gunshot of realizing a profit for their trouble and expenditure. Under proper conditions it can be and has been made very profitable but I urge even the farmer with a small swamp on his farm to give the matter most careful thought before he spends any money. In a majority of cases it is much safer to associate with such organizations that are in a position to employ scientific and experienced men for all branches of the business. In my opinion the small ranch of say less than 250 acres, would be unprofitable and the chances would be much against success unless one were able to give the ranch all of his time and attention."

NEW FORD ATTRACTS THOUSANDS HERE

Tyrholm Motor Co. Opens Doors Today for Showing of Pictures, Charts

MODE HERE SOON

Expected Within Few Days; Low Price Prohibits High Paid Sales Force

Had Andy Gump appeared in Brainerd ready to dish out sackfuls of gold to the needy it would have caused no more furor than did the advent of the opening of the Walter P. Tyrholm Co. show rooms this morning to the public of Brainerd and vicinity for the first real official showing of pictures and charts of the new Ford car.

An early estimate of the number of eager citizens to receive first hand information of the new Henry Ford pride and product was placed by Mr. Tyrholm at 5,000 with indications that the number would be exceeded by this evening.

Walter P. Tyrholm, manager of the Tyrholm Motor Co. exclusive agents for the new Ford car in this territory stated that he was confident that he would be able to place on display the model itself possibly this week with definite assurance that the car would be here the early part of next week. Due to the great demand for the car models throughout the entire country and awaited by millions of people it has been impossible to place the models at present constructed to fulfill the desires of all. The models therefore have been placed in the larger cities where they might be viewed by the greatest number of people. The arrival of the model here within a day or so however will cause an even greater attraction than did the fine display this morning.

The show rooms at the Tyrholm Co. presented an artistic arrangement that embodied all the ideals of the great car producer. One section of the room was devoted to the display of the charts and pictures, centered by the autographed photograph of Henry Ford and bordered by flowers and the well known Ford colors

The following lakes are closed to fishhouses and spearing through the ice: Barber, Holt, Crooked T. 43, R. 28, Big Horseshoe, Kenney, Border, Smith, one half of Edwards, one half of Long, near Merrifield. The lakes partly closed will be staked out showing the sections.

The season for fish house spearing opened December 1 continuing to February 1.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS ARE ALL OPEN

Minnesota trunk highways are all open and generally good, according to the weekly condition report issued by the State Highway department today. Snow has fallen in several parts of the state this week, and in case of more snow, motorists are warned to make inquiries before taking long trips.

Where there is no snow roads are frozen but generally smooth and good going. Roads of recent construction are likely to be rough.

Detailed reports of conditions on the so-called Babcock roads marked with the official yellow star follow, insofar as they refer to roads in the Brainerd Lake Region:

T. H. No. 2 — Duluth, Brainerd, Wadena, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead—260 miles—Duluth, paved—Carlton, good—Crosby, 7 mile detour good—Brainerd, good—Hawley, paved—Moorhead.

NEW FORD ATTRACTS THOUSANDS HERE

Tyrholm Motor Co. Opens Doors Today for Showing of Pictures, Charts

MODE HERE SOON

Expected Within Few Days; Low
Price Prohibits High Paid
Sales Force

Had Andy Gump appeared in Brainerd ready to dish out sackfuls of gold to the needy it would have caused no more furor than did the advent of the opening of the Walter P. Tyrholm Co. show rooms this morning to the public of Brainerd and vicinity for the first real official showing of pictures and charts of the new Ford car.

An early estimate of the number of eager citizens to receive first hand information of the new Henry Ford pride and product was placed by Mr. Tyrholm at 5,000 with indications that the number would be exceeded by this evening.

Walter P. Tyrholm, manager of the Tyrholm Motor Co. exclusive agents for the new Ford car in this territory stated that he was confident that he would be able to place on display the model itself possibly this week with definite assurance that the car would be here the early part of next week. Due to the great demand for the car models throughout the entire country and awaited by millions of people it has been impossible to place the models at present constructed to fulfill the desires of all. The models therefore have been placed in the larger cities where they might be viewed by the greatest number of people. The arrival of the model here within a day or so however will cause an even greater attraction than did the fine display this morning.

The show rooms at the Tyrholm Co. presented an artistic arrangement that embodied all the ideals of the great car producer. One section of the room was devoted to the display of the charts and pictures, centered by the autographed photograph of Henry Ford and bordered by flowers and the well known Ford colors

SYNOPSIS

Hurricane Haley, skipper of the sealing schooner "Sea Sprite," kidnaps Polly, a dancer from the Riverside, a dance hall on the dock of Frisco. Though Hurricane treats the girl with great severity she does not mind, and when the crew mutinies she takes his side. Led by Brady, the crew rush Haley but for some time they are held in check by his ready revolver. A dense fog surrounds the "Sea Sprite" and as the battle rages around her decks a steamer bound for San Francisco rams the schooner. The mate, Brady, who leads the mutineers, is killed and due to the efforts of Haley the schooner escapes with little damage. The steamer heaves to and awaits to see the extent of the damage.

There were two doors to Polly's cabin, one into the companion way the other into the smaller cabin, used by Hurricane. For some reason Polly used the latter, and entered the room as Hurricane was putting his signature to the account of the accident. Bronson looked up at her, and nodded his head sadly; he understood, but Hurricane pretended that he did not hear her, and standing up passed the paper to the visiting mate.

"That fixes that," he remarked. "Sure you don't want anything?" asked Hardy. "How are you off for tobacco and supplies? Got plenty?" Haley nodded yes, and thanked him.

"Well then, I guess I'll wish you luck on a good voyage and be on my way. We're a couple of days late now."

Hurricane nodded goodbye, and Polly standing near saw that he did not intend to see her. With a sad little nod to Bronson, she quietly stepped across the cabin, and went on deck. Hardy, with a nod to Bronson, and a final wave to Hurricane followed her.

As Polly left the room, Hurricane looked up. He had known that Polly was there, of course, but some unknown reason had made him dread seeing her face. He did not want to see the look in her eyes that had appeared when he told her that she was to go. He just sat staring for several moments that seemed like hours to Bronson, who sat watching. Finally Bronson stood up, and as he reached the door-way looked at Hurricane.

"Cap'n," he said, "you're a damn fool."

Hurricane jumped to his feet with anger blazing in his eyes, but Bronson's gaze did not leave his, and soon the anger left the skipper's face, giving place to a look of decision. Springing to his feet, he rushed past Bronson, brushing him out of the way, and tore on deck.

No one was there but his crew removing the wreckage, and from the fog which still enveloped the boat came the creak of oarlocks. He was just a moment too late. If he had been able to see Polly, his looks would have told her all she needed, but the pride that had taken Hurricane Haley from the gutters that whelped him, forbade him to call to her.

As he peered into the fog, a sense of loneliness gripping his heart, a fretful puff of wind wafted the fog aside, and there a scant hundred feet away, was the boat from the Memphis City, and in the stern sheets a little figure which stared straight ahead. Hurricane leapt to the bulwarks, but the shout that came to his lips froze there, and little by little the boat drew away. Polly did not look around, she was afraid that Hurricane might not be looking, and then the fog fell and Polly had gone. For minutes that seemed like ages, Hurricane stood gazing into the fog, which swirled about him, touching his face like clammy lifeless fingers. (To be continued)

THREE MILLION DOLLAR CAMPAIGN FUND SOUGHT

ASSOCIATION AGAINST PROHIBITION AMENDMENT VOICES APPEAL

FINANCIAL SUPPORT EXPECTED FROM 300 REPUBLICAN "WETS"

New York, Dec. 1.—(UP)—William H. Stayton, chairman of the association against the prohibition amendment, asked financial support from 300 republican "wets" last night for a $3,000,000 campaign fund to conduct a national referendum on prohibition.

Stayton spoke at a private dinner sponsored by George B. Wightman, New York broker. Other speakers were Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, former Senator James W. Wadsworth and former Representative John Philip Hill of Maryland.

While the speeches were not made public, it was understood two main points were stressed. One was for a national referendum to be held along the same general lines as the New York 1926 vote when citizens overwhelmingly voiced their opinion for revision. The second was for the republican party at the 1928 national convention to pattern its plank after the 1860 one which proposed giving each state the fullest liberty in dealings with its domestic affairs.

Stayton suggested that a plank calling for a national prohibition referendum be placed in the 1928 platforms of both parties. He also wanted the referendum's results to be used as a basis for future action.

The $3,000,000 campaign fund would be used, he said, to tell the voters of the high points of the wets' arguments.

Stayton, in talking to reporters before going to the dinner, stressed the point that the dinner was not simply for republicans. However, the other speakers were all leaders in the wet wing of the republican party.

"If we can have no national referendum, we urge as an alternative a referendum in selected states, with an aggregate vote of 6,000,000 representing, say, 25,000,000 persons," Stayton told reporters.

"If we are confined to obtaining a referendum piecemeal, as at present, our financial requirements will be in accordance with the size of the task. We plan, if we can raise the funds for it, to send two letters to each of the 27,000,000 voters in the United States. At five cents a letter this would cost about $3,000,000."

Former Senator Wadsworth announced his candidacy as New York delegate-at-large to the 1928 republican national convention and he was reported to have told the diners he would press the convention for a referendum plank.

Dr. Butler said he was not "a candidate for any office at all." That was understood by the republican leaders to be leaving the path as delegate or delegate-at-large open to his daughter, Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler. But President Butler, it was assumed, would thus be able to devote his full time to promoting the prohibition opposition without being suspected of political aspirations.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Senator William E. Borah, advocate of a strict prohibition enforcement plank in the 1928 republican national platform, told an audience here that he believed the convention would vote "to uphold the constitution."

"Control your delegates at the coming convention, assert your power and you will win," he said, "you cannot tell me that there are more men in this country who do not believe in law enforcement than there are that do."

Senator Borah was bitter in his denunciation of "nullification" of the prohibition laws through refusal of politicians to enforce existing legislation.

"You can't amend the Volstead act so as to satisfy the people who want to break the amendment," the senator said. "They will not be satisfied with the added aroma. That would not satisfy President Butler and Senator Wadsworth, for whom I have the profoundest respect."

He said President Lincoln did not approve of the fugitive slave law, but enforced it because he believed this government could not endure without law enforcement.

"It begins to look as if we were going to have a real convention, not a caucus, in 1928," the senator said. "I say to the republican and the democratic leaders, 'go ahead, let's have a vote on the question of law enforcement. It will clarify the atmosphere.'"

"I ask for nothing but a fair submission to the people of the question of repealing this part of the constitution, and I believe that when the returns come in the politicians who described themselves as wet and dry will be found high and dry."

PRELIMINARY HEARING OF SIX FOLSOM PRISON RIOTERS POSTPONED

Folsom, Calif., Dec. 1.—(UP)—The preliminary hearing of six leaders of the Folsom prison riots before Justice John F. Leonard was postponed today until next Monday. The delay was ordered to permit the convicts to consult with attorneys. The six men were charged in the report of a coroner's jury yesterday with murder for the killing of Ray Singleton, a prison guard.

After the preliminary hearing Monday, the conspirators will be held for early trial in Superior court at which the state will ask the death penalty.

In addition to Singleton 12 other men, 11 of them convicts, died during the rioting or from wounds received in the fighting.

Revolver Introduced in Case of 'Wicky' Hanson Identified

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 1.—(UP)—A revolver, introduced in the case of Arthur "Wicky" Hanson, who is charged with a gasoline filling station robbery, was identified today as that stolen in the robbery of the postoffice at Lake City, Minn., last December.

Daniel C. McKenzie, postmaster at Lake City, made the identification

In court after previous witnesses identified the weapon as one used in a local robbery last May.

The revolver, witnesses testified, was found by the seven-year-old son of James L. Patoud and turned over to police.

Hanson was recently exonerated when charged with the murder of James Barrett here several months ago.

SPIRITUALISTIC MEDIUM PROVES HER WORTH

Davenport, Iowa, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Acting on the advice of a spiritualist medium, relatives of Mrs. John Korn, 38, searched the basement of her home and found her unconscious from exposure after 10 days of self-imposed imprisonment on a bread and water diet.

The woman, who, relatives said, suffered from nervous disorders, was dressed in rags and had hidden in an obscure niche of the basement. Several searches of the basement had not revealed her until the medium specified, relatives said, the exact place she was hiding. Her condition today was reported to be critical.

SYNOPSIS

Hurricane Haley, skipper of the sealing schooner "Sea Sprite," kidnaps Polly, a dancer from the River-side, a dance hall on the dock of Frisco. Though Hurricane treats the girl with great severity she does not mind, and when the crew mutinies she takes his side. Led by Brady, the crew rush Haley but for some time they are held in check by his ready revolver. A dense fog surrounds the "Sea Sprite" and as the battle rages around her decks a steamer bound for San Francisco rams the schooner. The mate, Brady, who leads the mutineers, is killed and due to the efforts of Haley the schooner escapes with little damage. The steamer heaves to and awaits to see the extent of the damage.

There were two doors to Polly's cabin, one into the companion way the other into the smaller cabin, used by Hurricane. For some reason Polly used the latter, and entered the room as Hurricane was putting his signature to the account of the accident. Bronson looked up at her, and nodded his head sadly; he understood, but Hurricane pretended that he did not hear her, and standing up passed the paper to the visiting mate.

"That fixes that," he remarked. "Sure you don't want anything?" asked Hardy. "How are you off for tobacco and supplies? Got plenty?" Haley nodded yes, and thanked him.

"Well then, I guess I'll wish you luck on a good voyage and be on my way. We're a couple o' days late now."

Hurricane nodded goodbye, and Polly standing near saw that he did not intend to see her. With a sad little nod to Bronson, she quietly stepped across the cabin, and went on deck. Hardy, with a nod to Bronson, and a final wave to Hurricane followed her.

As Polly left the room, Hurricane looked up. He had known that Polly was there, of course, but some unknown reason had made him dread seeing her face. He did not want to see the look in her eyes that had appeared when he told her that she was to go. He just sat staring for several moments that seemed like hours to Bronson, who sat watching. Finally Bronson stood up, and as he reached the door-way looked at Hurricane.

"Cap'n," he said, "you're a damn fool."

Hurricane jumped to his feet with anger blazing in his eyes, but Bronson's gaze did not leave his, and soon the anger left the skipper's face, giving place to a look of decision. Springing to his feet, he rushed past Bronson, brushing him out of the way, and tore on deck.

No one was there but his crew removing the wreckage, and from the fog which still enveloped the boat came the creak of oarlocks. He was just a moment too late. If he had been able to see Polly, his looks would have told her all she needed, but the pride that had taken Hurricane Haley from the gutters that whelped him, forbade him to call to her.

As he peered into the fog, a sense of loneliness gripping his heart, a fretful puff of wind wafted the fog aside, and there a scant hundred feet away, was the boat from the Memphis City, and in the stern sheets a little figure which stared straight ahead. Hurricane leapt to the bulwarks, but the shout that came to his lips froze there, and little by little the boat drew away. Polly did not look around, she was afraid that Hurricane might not be looking, and then the fog fell and Polly had gone. For minutes that seemed like ages, Hurricane stood gazing into the fog, which swirled about him, touching his track like clammy lifeless fingers. (To be continued)

REP. A. J. FURLOW MAY GET ON WAYS, MEANS COMMITTEE

St. Paul, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Rep. Allen J. Furlow, Rochester, first district, may get a place on the house ways and means committee when congress meets Monday, it was learned here today.

A movement is on to have the post given Rep.-elect Estep, Pennsylvania, but a strong feeling prevails against such an appointment of a new member. Rep. Furlow has been a member of the house military affairs committee for two sessions.

THREE MILLION DOLLAR CAMPAIGN FUND SOUGHT

ASSOCIATION AGAINST PROHIBITION AMENDMENT VOICES APPEAL

FINANCIAL SUPPORT EXPECTED FROM 300 REPUBLICAN "WETS"

New York, Dec. 1.—(UP)—William H. Stayton, chairman of the association against the prohibition amendment, asked financial support from 300 republican "wets" last night for a $3,000,000 campaign fund to conduct a national referendum on prohibition.

Stayton spoke at a private dinner sponsored by George B. Wightman, New York broker. Other speakers were Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, former Senator James W. Wadsworth and former Representative John Philip Hill of Maryland.

While the speeches were not made public, it was understood two main points were stressed. One was for a national referendum to be held along the same general lines as the New York 1928 vote when citizens overwhelmingly voiced their opinion for revision. The second was for the republican party at the 1928 national convention to pattern its plank after the 1860 one which proposed giving each state the fullest liberty in dealings with its domestic affairs.

Stayton suggested that a plank calling for a national prohibition referendum be placed in the 1928 platforms of both parties. He also wanted the referendum's results to be used as a basis for future action.

The $3,000,000 campaign fund would be used, he said, to tell the voters of the high points of the "wets'" arguments.

Stayton, in talking to reporters before going to the dinner, stressed the point that the dinner was not simply for republicans. However, the other speakers were all leaders in the wet wing of the republican party.

"If we can have no national referendum, we urge as an alternative a referendum in selected states, with an aggregate vote of 6,000,000 representing, say, 25,000,000 persons," Stayton told reporters.

"If we are confined to obtaining a referendum piecemeal, as at present, our financial requirements will be in accordance with the size of the task. We plan, if we can raise the funds for it, to send two letters to each of the 27,000,000 voters in the United States. At five cents a letter this would cost about $3,000,000."

Former Senator Wadsworth announced his candidacy as New York delegate-at-large to the 1928 republican national convention and he was reported to have told the diners he would press the convention for a referendum plank.

Dr. Butler said he was not "a candidate for any office at all." That was understood by the republican leaders to be leaving the path as delegate or delegate-at-large open to his daughter, Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler. But President Butler, it was assumed, would thus be able to devote his full time to promoting the prohibition opposition without being suspected of political aspirations.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 1.—(UP)—Senator William E. Borah, advocate of a strict prohibition enforcement plank in the 1928 republican national platform, told an audience here that he believed the convention would vote "to uphold the constitution."

"Control your delegates at the coming convention, assert your power and you will win," he said, "you cannot tell me that there are more men in this country who do not believe in law enforcement than there are that do."

Senator Borah was bitter in his denunciation of "nullification" of the prohibition laws through refusal of politicians to enforce existing legislation.

"You can't amend the Volstead act so as to satisfy the people who want to break the amendment," the senator said. "They will not be satisfied with the added aroma. That would not satisfy President Butler and Senator Wadsworth, for whom I have the profoundest respect."

He said President Lincoln did not approve of the fugitive slave law, but enforced it because he believed this government could not endure without law enforcement.

"It begins to look as if we were going to have a real convention, not a caucus, in 1928," the senator said. "I say to the republican and the democratic leaders, go ahead, let's have a vote on the question of law enforcement. It will clarify the atmosphere."

"I ask for nothing but a fair submission to the people of the question of repealing this part of the constitution, and I believe that when the returns come in the politicians who described themselves as wet and dry will be found high and dry."

PRELIMINARY HEARING OF SIX FOLSOM PRISON RIOTERS POSTPONED

Folsom, Calif., Dec. 1.—(UP)—The preliminary hearing of six leaders of the Folsom prison riots before Justice John F. Leonard was postponed today until next Monday. The delay was ordered to permit the convicts to consult with attorneys. The six men were charged in the report of a coroner's jury yesterday with murder for the killing of Ray Singleton, a prison guard.

After the preliminary hearing Monday, the conspirators will be held for early trial in Superior court at which the state will ask the death penalty.

In addition to Singleton 12 other men, 11 of them convicts, died during the mutiny or from wounds received in the fighting.

Revolver Introduced in Case of 'Wicky' Hanson Identified

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 1.—(UP)—A revolver, introduced in the case of Arthur "Wicky" Hanson, who is charged with a gasoline filling station robbery, was identified today as that stolen in the robbery of the postoffice at Lake City, Minn., last December.

Daniel C. McKenzie, postmaster at Lake City, made the identification in court after previous witnesses identified the weapon as one used in a local robbery last May.

The revolver, witnesses testified, was found by the seven-year-old son of James L. Patoud and turned over to police.

Hanson was recently exonerated when charged with the murder of James Barrett here several months ago.

SPIRITUALISTIC MEDIUM PROVES HER WORTH

Davenport, Iowa, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Acting on the advice of a spiritualist medium, relatives of Mrs. John Korn, 38, searched the basement of her home and found her unconscious from exposure after 10 days of self-imposed imprisonment on a bread and water diet.

The woman, who, relatives said, suffered from nervous disorders, was dressed in rags and had hidden in an obscure niche of the basement. Several searches of the basement had not revealed her until the medium specified, relatives said, the exact place she was hiding. Her condition today was reported to be critical.
